

Voided Time

This void bubble we experience from the 12 supernova happening over the past twenty million years is still expanding at its peripherals at approximately 4 kilometers per second on average with higher and lower speeds considering the area of the "L" shaped bubble we are in the center of. When this bubble expanding loses momentum will the debris from 12 solar systems come crashing in on us to fill the vacuolated space we inhabit. If so this solar system will possibly have some of the most spectacular meteor and asteroid showers this galaxy has ever seen. If this solar system is going to survive we should place large spheres outside of it spinning to curl and flux the field and create an external source of gravity to steer our solar system to safety. The safest place to exit this bubble would be the inside corner of the "L" shaped where the least amount of blowback will be from the void refilling itself and stabilizing with this region of the milky way galaxy's equilibrium. That must be what Al marmazul needs all this power .

some thoughts from a guy with a 7th grade education.....

John pate owner of Electrolips LLC Berkeley California.

ConCERNed

If this new age group of physicists and engineers is so good at making everything electronic smaller. Then why is cern now on its third steroid pump with a ring that is __ kilometers in diameter? Shouldn't this thing be the size of an old record player or a volswagin beetle by now and have the ability to charge the micro capacitors with a standard usb c cable? Instead it's massive and has a plasma region in the area of ____ degrees and can incinerate half the globe if a magnetic arrays fails.

Thanks again smart people.

~ J. "Bearskin" Robbins.

Electrolips.com where science and racism meet, for one delicious cup of coffee.

Toxic Reciprocity

Considering the state of Florida is home to many of the United states more disgusting drug addicts and foreigners and all-around "mulligan" takers on life including the FBI's collection of lowlife scumbags they possess in the witness protection program. Would it be possible to have the state of Florida's trash and toxic wastes from tons of coastal resin production facilities, chemical and bio waste transported to Kansas or the like state where it can be buried safely away from the seas and tectonic plate edges. The citizens of Florida have had to bury your degenerate pasts for decades of not centuries, can you ingrates at least bury the waste your morons make in the preserves known as Florida. Which is totally overpopulated and should be vacated like the ass fungus canals in ft Lauderdale that you Zionists kill to get your dirty cave man hands on. Do you know the manatee in many areas of Florida are now brown and rust colored from all your ass fungus and other toxins leaching into the intercoastal waterways and out into the open seas where it hitchhikes a ride on the Gulfstream to destroy sealife and the fishing industry not only in the north sea but globally you disgusting pigs. Another interesting idea would be to stop building completely on the coasts and move all new construction between the Florida turnpike and Interstate highway number 95.